

6516207472.txt

My husband and I travel frequently. One of the things we love about our XM Satellite Radio is the ability to listen to what we want when we want. XM allows us to do this without playing hide and seek with regular AM/FM radio in cities where we are not familiar with their radio line - up.

A bonus this year is XM's new service for weather & traffic. A recent trip to Chicago was made easier because XM traffic informed its listeners of a 5 car pile-up on our regular route and were able to make adjustments to miss the traffic back-up. If we would have had to try and find that information on AM/FM radio, we very probably would have missed the opportunity to adjust our route and would have suffered long delays.

I feel, that as a paid subscriber to XM Satellite Radio, I have the right to the services that they can and are willing to offer. The National Association of Broadcasters, deep-pocket lobbyists, are looking out for their interests only - not the interests of consumers across the nation.